'THE ROSE MAIDEN' TOMORROW NIGHT

GREATEST PROGRAM IN THE HISTORY OF EAST CENTRAL NORMAL TO BE GIVEN IN AUDITORIUM.

The summer chorus of East Central State Normal school will sing "The Rose Maiden" in concert Friday evening, July 23, in the normal auditorium.

This cantata by the English composer Frederick H. Owen, has long been a favorite study for choral clubs and singing societies. It has had a revival during the past year, in concert, and has been a part of some of the spring musical festivals throughout the country. Because of the beauty of melody and harmonious form and richness of accompaniment—piano and orchestra—it is well adapted for serious study and is most attractive in presentation.

The story is a slender thread upon which to hang the music, with its lovely spring motives, its deeper minor strains, for contrast. The Queen of the Flower Fairies, weary of a life of unbroken calm, prays of the newly returned Spring that he will bestow upon her the gift of love he bestows upon man. He warns her of the risk she runs but finally yields to her entreaties by changing her while she sleeps into the form of a beautiful maiden. Under the name of Roseblossom she wanders through the world to find the love that she seeks, and meets a girl who having been deserted by her lover, loses her senses and dies broken-hearted. But undeterred from her search, Roseblossom becomes the wife of a forester with whom she lives in such perfect happiness that she cannot long survive his death. The elves bewail the fate of their queen and curse love as fatal to peace and happiness.

The best known number is the "Bridal Chorus." Others of distinction are "Where gloomy pine trees rustle," a bass solo, and the climax, "Ye, 'e'en as die the roses," with a tenor obbligato.

The solos and duets are taken by young people who have sung the leading parts in the operas given by the music department during the last two years.

The tenor role, "The Forester," will be sung by Mr. Longley Fentem. Mr. Donald Spawr has the part of "Narrator," a baritone. "Roseblossom," a soprano, is represented by Miss Dorothy Duncan, and Opal Garrett, "The Gardener's Daughter," by Miss Frances Campbell, also, Oscar Parker will sing the bass solo.

The normal orchestra under the direction of Mr. F. H. Schrieber, will accompany. Miss Natalie Manville and Miss Ruth Smoot are the pianists. The chorus numbers 100 voices.

Everyone is cordially invited to come. The chorus will begin at 8 o'clock.

CANNED MEAT AT COST TO COMBAT HIGH COST

FARM LABOR CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT CHEERED

SALT LAKE CITY, July 22.—A parade, in which all labor bodies, members of fraternal orders and the candidates' friends were invited to join, was the principal event in the welcoming for Parley P. Christensen, farm labor nominee for president, on his return to his home here today.

CHOOSING.

Life may be compared to simply a big game of choosing. From the time we come into possession of our thought powers until the time we are laid away for the last time, we are continually choosing, choosing. Widely varying possibilities and probabilities present themselves at every turn in the road. We are continually called upon to select that which we think will best serve our purposes. Our judgment is forever being challenged.

What great effect these choices have on our lives. One boy chooses to stop out of school. He falls into the "blind alley" job. One man picks the wrong vocation and becomes a misfit. One chooses the wrong life partner and marriage fails. One young man decides to use his time for foolish pleasures and wakes up in the bitter remorse of unpreparedness in later life. The masses here and there look back over the vista of time and see the poor choices they made that meant so much in shaping their lives.

Wise is the one who chooses with discretion.

RAILWAY MEN STILL WANT MORE

NOT SATISFIED WITH SIX HUNDRED MILLION; MAY STRIKE FOR STILL BIGGER WAGE.

By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, July 21.—Heads of the great railroad brotherhoods today were divided in opinion on the course of action, which should be pursued as to acceptance or rejection of the six hundred million dollar wage increase granted by the railroad labor board.

At the close of an all night session, at which no agreement was reached, on a platform for concerted action, six of the brotherhoods, in addition to the masters, mates and pilots of America, have expressed their decision as favorable to accept the award in its entirety. Seven favored referring the question to the union with recommendations that it be accepted, two were undecided and one, the order of railway telegraphers, had decided to reject the award and was said to be preparing for a strike ballot.

Despite the difference of opinion between the union leaders, the chiefs reiterated today that there was no danger of an immediate concerted strike.

Friday in the Army

Was "fish day." Soldiers looked forward to the time when they could get those famous little members of the finny tribe stewed, boiled, roasted and fried. They liked 'em.

Since the signing of the armistice and the ending of the world war, it is left up to American business institutions to afford some kind of amusement and pleasure for the boys who ate the "gold fish" and shouldered the big rifles. Amusements can be placed in several classes. Shows, athletic contests, automobiles and ball games are included in this descriptive, and we may add that newspapers of the first class can afford a few hours of pleasure, if they contain the proper kind of reading matter.

Tomorrow, The News will issue 12 or 16 pages of clean automobile and sport news, together with additional local stories and happenings. It is our intention to make this paper bigger and better each issue and those who wish to see The News enjoyed and a paper that you can justly be proud of, kindly phone 307 and tell the reporters a little news.

We'll do the rest.

NATION IN HANDS OF NEWSPAPERS

SO DECLARES SIR AUCKLAND GEDDES TO SOUTHERN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION AT ASHVILLE

By the Associated Press
ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 22.—The making of international relations of the future is largely in the hands of the newspapermen of America and the British Empire, Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, declared in an address at the annual meeting of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association.

The hope of mankind that the last great war has been fought, Sir Auckland said, could be turned by the newspaper writers of the English speaking world either to cruel mockery or advance toward realization.

Mutual understanding between the British commonwealth of nations and the United States matters more to the English speaking people and to the world than anything else at the present time. Sir Auckland declared, because without understanding there can be no friendship and without friendship there can be no co-operation.

Would it be in your interest, would it be less costly for you to effect the expansion of your foreign trade, in the teeth of British opposition?" asked the Ambassador. "Would it pay you less if you effected it in reasonable co-operation with us? Would it cost you less to build a navy commensurate to your needs in opposition to us or more in agreement with us? Would it help you to find difficulties largely of your own creation or actions to your actions in Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, in India and in every land in which the British flag flies as well as in every land in which the British trader does business and the British banks have branches? Would it harm you to find friends there and have to meet only the sort of competition that exists between rival concerns of the same nationality? On the lowest basis, would it pay you if Britain were to develop cotton growing on a great scale in her African territory because of a sense of instability created?"

'DOWN ON THE FARM' A SENNETT COMEDY

There will be size to the audiences this afternoon and evening at the McSwain Theater and enthusiasm in proportion to their numbers. The occasion is the first presentation in this city of Mack Sennett's latest five-reel comedy sensation "Down on the Farm," released by United Artists Corporation. In it this master of the art of making mirth grow where only frowns grew before, again demonstrates Mr. Sennett's power to provide what the public wants and most needs in these days of difficulties and soaring costs—laughter; for "Down on the Farm" is one many-stranded appeal to merriment, the stronger and surer in its tugging power because of the many elements involved. These elements are contrasting qualities. There is humor and seriousness, there is laughter and there are thrills. The mirth is greater because it is balanced with episodes of gravity. Suspense follows after hilarity to render the next comic episode still more hilarious. No film producer has succeeded so well in mingling and balancing a wide variety of appeal as has Mr. Sennett in this latest "Down on the Farm."

A definite plot is carried throughout the five reels. It relates mainly to Louise Frazenda, daughter of a farmer, (Bert Roach.) The latter is a victim of financial difficulties represented in a mortgage held by the village Shylock (Jimmy Finlayson.) Either the pretty girl or the mortgage must be foreclosed for the country loan-shark will accept the daughter in marriage in lieu of the money. His eagerness to enter the bonds of wedlock is explained to the audience but not to the principals by the fact that the would-be Benedict is aware of the fact that the little country girl is an heiress, fabulously rich. How she gets rid of her unwelcome suitor and weds the rustic Romeo of her choice and how the latter penetrates the mystery of the inheritance so that happy in the final fade-out is told through episodes hitting in high all the time. There isn't a slow moment from the time that the champion rooster of the ranch puts the sun on the job until the wedding bells play a prelude to the epilogue of "five years later." Even in the final scene of the story, in found an unexpected climax as full of surprise as the fall of the best of stories.

SENATOR HARDING IS NOTIFIED TODAY

CAN NOW BE CERTAIN THAT HE IS REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY.

MARION, Ohio, July 22.—The republican campaign attained full speed today with the formal notification of Warren G. Harding, the party nominee for president. The notification committee program, which brought to Marion most of the big leaders of the party and many thousands of Harding enthusiasts, included an acceptance speech by Senator Harding interpreting the Chicago platform.

The acceptance speech came at the end of a long program, in which high pitched enthusiasm ruled the day. Delegation after delegation, with bands blaring and colors flying, marched up to the Harding front porch, as 30 special trains and thousands of automobile unloaded their contribution to the notification crowd.

From Senator Harding's home down to the heart of the business section, a lane of tall white pillars formed a spotless court of honor to mark the route of the paraders, and along the way scarcely a window was without its portrait of the republican candidate.

The purple, white and gold of the women's suffrage came, early made its appearance in the gathering crowds, but the plan of the women to picket the notification ceremony was abandoned.

During the morning the senator had an appointment to receive a delegation from the National Women's party, who wanted him to aid in securing favorable action from the Tennessee legislature.

By the Associated Press
MARION, Ohio, July 22.—The Marion boosters cheered the senator until he consented to make a short talk, thanking them for this show of neighborly interest and enthusiasm.

"I am going to make my speech later in the day," he said, "but I cannot let you go without saying how deeply I am touched by this tribute from home folks."

Long before noon the delegates began to tramp on one another's toes and the shaking hands with all who came. He took his position on the steps of his porch and smilingly waved acknowledgment as the howling throng marched past. He got an extra roar of applause from a delegation when he led Mrs. Harding down the steps and presented her as "the head of this family."

MR. BRYAN AND ANOTHER WOMAN ON "DRY" TICKET

By the Associated Press
LINCOLN, Neb., July 22.—With the nomination of its presidential candidates completed, the prohibition national convention today turned its attention toward the selection of a vice presidential candidate, the adoption of a platform and election of a new national committee. Adjournment tonight was considered possible. The convention nominated William Jennings Bryan for its presidential candidate over a protest made by Charles Bryan, his brother, through the New York delegation. Early today no word had been received from Mr. Bryan concerning his attitude on the nomination. As a running mate for William Jennings Bryan, the name of Miss Marie Brehm, permanent chairman of the convention, stood out in discussion among the delegates.

ESSEX WON DURATION CONTEST YESTERDAY

By News' Special Service.
OKLAHOMA CITY, July 22.—Starting yesterday morning at 6 o'clock from the end of the pavement on West Tenth street in Oklahoma City, "Speed" Fleming driving an Elgin and Bud Gentry piloting an Essex, raced 101 miles overland to Enid for a side bet, it is said, of $500, and a bonus of $1,000.

The agreement set forth that both cars must be from the stock and equipped only with such accessories as a car direct from the factory carries. Both pilots tuned up their mounts for several days preparatory to entrance into this race.

The Essex and Elgin were carrying three passengers each and the Essex made the trip in 2 hours and 3 1/2 minutes. The Elgin reported trouble at Hennessy and was forced to quit.

WILL NOTIFY GOV. COX AUGUST 9TH

AFTER WHICH THE GOVERNOR WILL DELIVER HIS KEY-NOTE ADDRESS AND
LAUNCH CAMPAIGN.

By the Associated Press
COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 22.—Chairman White of the democratic national committee today announced that Saturday, August 7, had been chosen as the date for notification of Governor Cox of his nomination as presidential candidate.

The following Monday, August 9, was fixed for the notification of Franklin D. Roosevelt as vice presidential candidate.

Ceremonies for Governor Cox will take place at Trail's End, his home near Dayton, with those for his running mate at the Roosevelt home at Hyde Park, New York. Mr. Roosevelt will attend the Dayton ceremonies and Governor Cox today said that if possible he will go to Hyde Park.

Governor Cox will leave here tomorrow to begin work on his speech of acceptance at Dayton. He plans to confine himself at Trail's End and work continuously there until his address is finished. While at Dayton he will be the city's hero at a homecoming celebration on July 30th.

"I hope to lock myself at Trail's End," said Governor Cox, "and get it out. I have my subject fairly well in hand already. There are a number of vital things, and then I shall have to assemble all the less important. I cannot tell yet whether it will be a long or short address."

"DRYS ARE ELATED AT MR. BRYAN'S NOMINATION

By the Associated Press
LINCOLN, Neb., July 22.—Several hundred telegrams and many more letters, many special delivery, poured into William Jennings Bryan's office today, urging him to accept the prohibition nomination for president. They came from all parts of the country, and the dominant keynote in all was that this was "Mr. Bryan's opportunity to sweep the country."

OKLAHOMA KNEE DEEP IN WEALTH

THAT WILL DESCRIBE CONDITIONS HERE THIS FALL FROM THE CROP REPORT JUST ISSUED

By the Associated Press
OKLAHOMA CITY, July 21.—"With ample moisture now in the ground an exceptionally good corn crop is practically assured for this year," says the synopsis of weather and crop conditions in the state for the week ending July 20th, issued today by the weather bureau here. Early corn is reported to be maturing, while most of the latter planted is in the silk and tassle, or roasting ear stage. The condition is given as from good to excellent.

Cotton made good to excellent progress in the south and west portion, where it is blooming and fruiting nicely. In the northeastern part of the state, there was too much rain and cloudiness, and the plants are making rather rank growth, and the weekly progress was only generally fair. Grain, sorghum, broom corn, sweet potatoes, peanuts and truck crops made excellent progress, and are very promising, the report declares.

INCREASED FARES TO TAKE CARE OF WAGE INCREASE

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, July 22.—An increase of 20 percent in passenger fares and 50 percent in Pullman charges was asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the railroad to cover part of the 600 million dollar award of the Railway Labor Board. Additional increases in freight rates ranging from ten percent in eastern territory to eight percent in the western territory, also were asked. The executives requested an increase in the freight rates on milk proportionate to the increase on rates on other commodities made in the roads first application for rate increases.

Do Not Forget Tom D. McKeown

In the hurly burly of a crowded campaign the voters of Pontotoc County must not forget the candidacy of Tom D. McKeown. The fact that he has no aggressive opposition should not cause his friends to overlook his candidacy. As a matter of rewarding a faithful public servant every voter who votes in the Democratic primary should speak a good word for McKeown and vote for him on election day.

Judge McKeown has not made a thorough canvas of his district and will not be able to see anything like all of the voters. He returned from Washington badly wearied by the succeeding sessions of the war and reconstruction congresses and has been trying to take a much needed rest. For that reason he has not attempted to cover the entire district in the interest of his candidacy.

There is no flaw in the official record of Tom McKeown. He has cast thousands of votes, some of them on the most important questions that have been before congress in fifty years. Yet a study of his record and his votes will show that he has voted invariably for the interest of the people of his district. The American people are fond of rewarding faithful servants, and for that reason they will be glad to reward Tom McKeown. But they must not overlook his candidacy.

HARDING GIVES PARTY'S PLEDGE

OUTLINES PLAN OF CAMPAIGN IN SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE AND PLEDGES LOYALTY TO PARTY

By the Associated Press
MARION, O., July 22.—A pledge of constitutional government, administered by party and not by individual and based on national rather than world ideals was given by Warren G. Harding today in accepting formally the republican nomination for the presidency.

He welcomed a popular referendum on the League of Nations, advocated increased production to cut the high cost of living, pleaded for obliteration of sectional and class conflict, and declared for industrial peace "not forced but inspired by the common weal."

Prohibition he gave only a passing notice, saying that despite divided opinion regarding the eighteenth amendment and that statutes enacted to make it operative, there must be no evasion in their enforcement. He declared it his "sincere desire" that ratification of the suffrage amendment be completed to permit women to vote this fall in every state.

Reviewing and commending briefly many other planks of the party platform, the candidate declared for collective bargaining for farmers, repression of the disloyal, "generous federal co-operation" in rehabilitating the railroads, intelligent deflation of the currency, enlargement of government aid in reclamation, a genuine expression of gratitude to veterans of the world war, the maintenance of an ample navy and a "small army but the best in the world."

In his promise of "a party government," Senator Harding reiterated his belief that the Vice-president should have a part in the affairs of the chief executive's official family and declared there also should be a "cordial understanding and co-ordinate activities" between the executive and congress. "No man," he said, "is big enough to run this great republic. Our first commitment is the restoration of representative popular government, under the constitution, through the agency of the republican party."

Promising restoration of peace as soon as a republican congress should send a peace delegation to a republican president for his signature, the candidate assailed the league covenant as brought home by President Wilson but declared the war's sacrifices would be "in vain if we cannot acclaim a new order with added security to civilization and peace maintained."

"We republicans of the senate," he continued, "when we saw the structure of a world super-government taking visionary form, joined in a becoming warning of our devotion to this republic. The republicans of the senate halted the barter of independent American eminence and influence."

"We do not mean to hold aloof. We do not mean to shun a single responsibility of this republic. We were resolved then even as we are today and will be tomorrow, to preserve this free and independent republic. Let those now responsible, or seeking responsibility, propose the surrender, whether with interpretations, apologies, or reluctant reservations—from which our rights are to be omitted. We welcome the referendum to the American people on the preservation of America."

"With a Senate advising as the constitution contemplates, I would hopefully approach the nations of Europe and of the earth, proposing that understanding which makes us a willing participant in the consecration of nations to a new leadership, to commit the moral forces of the world, America included, to peace and international justice, still leaving America free, independent and self-reliant, but offering friendship to all the world."

Declaring railway employees ought to be the best paid in the world, the candidate emphasized the responsibility of such service and added:

The government might well stamp railways employment with the sanctity of public service and guarantee to the railway employees that justice which voices the American conception of righteousness on the one hand and assures continuity of service on the other."

In his reference to prohibition and law enforcement he said: "People ever will differ about the wisdom of the enactment of a law—there is divided opinion regarding the eighteenth amendment and the laws enacted to make it operative—but there can be no difference of opinion about honest law enforcement. Modification or repeal is the right of a free people, whenever the deliberate and intelligent public sentiment commands, but perversion and evasion mark the paths to the failure of government itself."

State News

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 22.—Some "rich relative" was the comment of James Simpson, a farmer living near this city, when he saw a bright yellow taxi-cab drive up to his gate and stop.

But it wasn't. It was a 20th century farm hand, late of New York city, who had been advised by the federal employment bureau that Simpson would pay $50 a month and board for a good farm hand.

He worked about long enough to earn the money the taxi cost him and then left, Simpson in relating the incident at the bureau said.

McALESTER, Okla., July 22.—Members of the Choctaws and Chickasaws, now due their per capita payments, will not receive their money until the first of August, according to an announcement at the Indian Office here. Application blanks received last month were made payable July 1.

Application blanks for payment have been sent to all guardians of minors in this probate district comprising Latimer and Pittsburg counties. The per capita payments to minors alone will reach approximately $15,000, the Indian Office estimates.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 22.—In an experiment to determine if cotton can be grown in Kay county, Oklahoma, 750 acres have been planted to this crop on the "101 ranch." A report to H. H. Schultz, federal crop reporter for the state says the cotton is making excellent progress.

No cotton has been raised in the northern tier counties for nearly 14 years, according to Schultz. In 1916 cotton was raised in Beaver and Osage counties of Oklahoma and in Montgomery county Kansas. Beaver county produced 1,400 bales that year, Osage county 851 bales and the Kansas county 21 bales.

DUNCAN, Okla., July 22.—Assessment figures compiled by the Stephens county assessor show the valuation of all assessed property in the county for the year ending May 20, was $12,525,329. This is an increase of $2,715,529 over the assessed valuation of 1919.

PONCA CITY, Okla., July 22.—The day of the "bad man" in Ponca City movies is past. The city commissioners have decreed that moving pictures of bank robbing, murder and outlawry in general shall be no more. The matter has been placed in the hands of J. S. Hutchings, commissioner, and a censor may be appointed to cut crime from the films.

CLEVELAND, Okla., July 22.—Cleveland has voted an increased levy of 10 mills for its schools. The new high school building, now under construction, probably will be completed in September.

HENRYETTA, Okla., July 22.—The recent heavy rains which visited this section the past two weeks assure greater field crops than those of 1919, in the opinion of Okmulgee county farmers. Corn especially will be a bumper crop, they state, as this crop was planted to a greater acreage than in previous years. Cotton acreage has also increased, with present indications pointing to a big yield.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., July 22.—Surpluses in various county funds in revenue other than ad valorem tax during 1919-20 total more than $60,000, according to the county clerk's annual report.

CHICKASHA, Okla., July 22.—One hundred and fifty delegates from different towns in western Oklahoma are expected to attend the west Oklahoma Epworth League conference to be held here July 20-23.

McALESTER, Okla., July 22.—A report of prison officials to the state board of affairs shows that two million pounds of binding twine, made by state prisoners here, have been sold to farmers of Oklahoma since the first of the year. Sales during the month of June totaled more than $137,000, the report states.

The penitentiary still has a storage, which prison officials declare will be sufficient to take care of the fall needs of the state. The unusual production of twine this year is attributed by Deputy Warden Garret to the steady output on the part of the convicts.

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN WEALTH AND POVERTY

Some get rich on a small income. Others keep poor on a large income, and the difference is thrift.

"According to statistics only one man in every thousand makes a test of the simple cycle of thrift, work and thought," The Strathmorean declares. "But the one man who does has every opportunity of attaining success and becoming well known in the business world."

"Out of an original cash capital of $50, saved by dint of the hardest effort, Frank Woolworth built up a $65,000,000 business in the United States, Canada, and Great Britain, and controlled 1,068 5-and-10-cent stores. Thrift, work and thought. Fifty dollars plus an idea. And ten years from now the newspapers of 1929 will be printing wonderful stories of men like Frank Woolworth who are today unknown. These successful men of tomorrow and the day after may now be working behind counters, in factories, on farms, and elsewhere. It is hard to pick them out.

"They may not scintillate brilliantly or show super-talent in their own respective lines of work just at present, but inquiry would probably develop that they are following out the almost inevitable cycle of success. These future Woolworths save money, not much maybe, perhaps $100 worth of War Savings Stamps during the year. A quarter here, half dollar there.

But this accumulation grows of itself as well as by additions, and finally, when an idea of seeming merit presents itself, enough capital is available to at least start to launch the idea. Other capital may be attracted, and eventually the cycle has again revolved and another success is registered.

"Luckily one man or woman in a thousand makes a practical test of this simple cycle of thrift, work and thought, for these people keep the world moving. In a few years the other 999 persons are usually working for them.

"Are you the one in your thousands?"

BATTERY 'B', 1ST FIELD ARTILLERY ORGANIZED

By the News Special Service.

PITTSBURG, Okla., July 22.—Battery "B", 1st Field Artillery, Oklahoma National Guard has been organized with permanent headquarters at this place. The spirit shown in organizing this battery is typical of the citizens of Pittsburg. Enlistment blanks were received on the evening of the 15th and the battery was recruited to a strength of fifty men and five officers by the evening of the 17th.

The men have all been sworn into service as they enlisted and everything is awaiting the arrival of Adjutant-General Barrett to muster the men in. The general is scheduled to arrive in Pittsburg on the evening of the 23rd.

While the plan is to get the necessary equipment here as soon as possible it is not likely that it can be done in time for the new battery to participate in the encampment for this year, however, the officers are expecting to be called for a few days instruction.

The equipment consists of 32 head of horses and four 75 millimeter field pieces and in addition all the other equipment furnished the troops of the regular army.

Arrangements to erect a stable and gun shed adjacent to Drew park and a suitable armory in town are under way. The citizens of the town are showing their appreciation of the work by doing all they can to help get the boys established in their quarters.

The officers who have already received their commissions are,

Floyd R. Drew, Captain; Wm. T. Cameron, 1st Lieutenant; Mark H. Bales, 1st Lieutenant; George Bailey, 2nd Lieutenant; Donald Bruce, 2nd Lieutenant. Dr. J. M. Harris, Medical Officer. Captain. Medical Corps, assigned to 2nd Infantry.

The officers and men are looking forward to receiving their equipment and beginning drilling. With the spirit shown they will make a creditable addition to the Oklahoma national guard.

Stacy Price, Ada Boy Gives An Interesting Story of Guam Isle

Stacy Price, son of R. P. Price of this city, and now employed on the U. S. Experiment Station on the Island of Guam, writes the following interesting letter to his father about a trip over the island:

U. S. Experiment Station,
Island of Guam,
May 20, 1920

Dear Home Folks:

I am in school now. Have just finished writing my Spanish lesson. Val and Billie are having arithmetic now. We are fine and hope you are the same.

I have been seeing some of the island the last two or three weeks. Two weeks ago we went out to a coconut plantation that has 6,000 trees on it. It is at the north end of the island. We went to the end of the road which was about 8 or 10 miles. Then we took a trail for about 6 miles through the jungles of Guam.

Just before we got there we had to go down a bluff 60 feet high. Here we could see all over the plantation. It was sure some sight. You can see what you see, though, going up and down this bluff.

We stayed at this plantation two days. We hiked most all over the place. The first evening we went to a cave that you go down under the ground about 40 feet and there is a nice pool of running water. The deepest part was about 10 feet and it was so clear that you could not tell there was any water in it from the bank.

The next day it was low tide and we went out on the reef and saw many things. Not far outside the reef we saw a school of porpoises. As the water rolled over the reef we could see a large blue fish swimming around.

That evening we started for home. It took us half an hour to climb the hill and they said we did well at that. We were about two hours walking to where the car was and believe me, we sure were glad to see it, too. When we got home Val had some lemonade and coconut cake ready for us. It sure did taste good to us, too, because we had to boil the water out there and then it would never get cool without ice.

Last week Mr. Green, (the man that came to see us at Ada when Gertie was sick) Glen and I went out to the station stock farm of 1,200 acres. We went in the car about 8 miles and then had to walk across the plains of Guam, which was about 5 miles. It rained on us all the way over there. We only stayed one day there. We got there at 7 o'clock in the morning.

At first we took the height, diameter and the number of 100, four year-old coconut trees. Then we went almost all over the place. We went through a cave about 60 feet through. Another place we went in a cave and there was a river of clear water running in it, and all at once it disappeared. You could not see where it went. That is about all we saw besides the jungles and all those things that would take too long to tell about.

—With love Stacy.

Norman Howard Post No. 72.

Well, What Did You Think?
"All right back there?" bawled the conductor.
"Hol' on, hol' on," shrilled a feminine voice. "Jes' wait till ah gets mah clothes on."
And then, as the entire carful craned their necks expectantly, she entered with a basket of laundry.

His Approval.

Up in the Argonne, the Jerries were sending over shells, shrapnel and gas with disconcerting and monotonous regularity. Most of the Yanks had sought whatever meager shelter they could find, but along the road drifted one mule skinner, stolidly driving a load of supplies to the front. From a sheltered dugout a voice hailed him.
"Hey, feller, what d'yer think of the war now?"

The skinner reflected long and carefully and then made up his mind.
"She's a bear," he replied at last. "Giddap."

Beaumont, Texas, post has donated $1,000 to a fund for the erection of a hospital for tubercular ex-soldiers at Kerrville, Texas, and has given $700 in a subscription drive for a community memorial building to be built in Beaumont. The post, which has new clubrooms, made $1,300 by giving a dance and $6,400 at three performances of its own minstrel show.

We note that Beaumont, Texas, has contributed a sum of money to be used for treatment of ex-soldiers who have contracted tuberculosis. Could it be possible that Ada would make a move like this? There may not be many cases of this disease among returned soldiers in this city, but a little home with pleasant surroundings would look nice.

Norman Howard Post No. 72 is in good shape financially and will do anything to make Ada a larger and better town. Could you suggest anything?

Soldiers who need aid in any manner can see the post commander or Mrs. Orville Snead, local Red Cross secretary, and this service is considered a pleasure to handle by either of these organizations.

Isn't it about time for the Legion to stage another athletic show? The natives are all willing, the promoters are ready, and we have plenty of performers. All lacking is for someone to say "Let's go."

The Boy Scouts, who are being fostered by their big brothers, the ex-soldiers, are anxious to get busy and help promote another picnic. We should have another similar affair before fall.

Dances, swimming parties and picnics are being given thru the efforts of the American Legion in this country. On the 23rd and 24th of this month the Wanette citizens are staging a big affair under the auspices of the ex-soldiers. Why can't we have another exhibition for our people.

Lowery Harrell, commander of this post and a perfectly good law business in this city says that if the law business gets dull, he will take out a little stock in the legion affairs. We are for him, seven days per week and will back him if the hair slips.

Much to the sorrow of the younger veterans. Only a few more days of the normal school. We suggest that they "pep" up and make hay while the sun shines.

All discharges have been returned to members of this post by Mr. Vernon, who was very nice to have them recorded at headquarters of the legion. Vernon was a little slow in the delivery, but the majority of the doughboys were slow, but mighty sure.

VOLSTEAD WINS IN LEGAL CONTEST

By News Special Service.
BENSON, Minn., July 22.—Rev. O. J. Kvale, of Benson, is disqualified as the republican candidate for congress in the Seventh Minnesota district in a decision filed here today by District Judge Albert Johnson, who heard the suit contesting Kvale's nomination.

Congressman A. H. Volstead, author of the prohibition enforcement act, who was defeated by Kvale in the June 21 primary, is declared in the decision to be the "duly nominated candidate of the republican party." Mr. Kvale was endorsed by the non-partisan league.

Action contesting Mr. Kvale's nomination was brought under the state corrupt practices act, and its basis included charges printed and circulated by Mr. Kvale that Volstead was an atheist and opposed to the Bible and that he had made sneering allusions to the Rev. Kvale's preaching on the miracle of the five loaves and the two small fishes.

Judge Johnson's decision asserts the acts of Mr. Kvale "constitute a deliberate, serious and material violation of the laws of the state . . . and that there is no justification or excuse therefor." Counsel for the Rev. Kvale have indicated that an opinion adverse to their client would result in an appeal to the state supreme court.

Telegraphers Need Vacations Just the Same As Others

"Occasionally you find a telegrapher, who, after months of faithful and efficient service, gets to a point where a well earned vacation is needed to keep him from getting the dots and dashes from being vice versa," stated G. B. Goodwin to a News reporter this afternoon.

Mr. Goodwin is taking the place of R. H. Weisner, the telegraph operator for the Western Union in this city, who left Tuesday with Mrs. Weisner for a trip to Hot Springs, Ark. Mr. and Mrs. Weisner will return to this city about the first of next month.

Mr. Goodwin is out of the district superintendent's office of the Western Union Telegraph Co., and is a believer in his profession. He agrees with Blackley, district sales supervisor, that love's "yea," hope's "no," death's "atque et vale," joy's herald, fortune's wax and wane are all torn from the little yellow envelopes by tremulous hands, while the operator sits in his dingy office down the street, and holds stethoscope to the heart of the world.

IRELAND IN A DEMONSTRATION FOR PRISONER

By the Associated Press

DUBLIN, July 22.—A demonstration was staged here yesterday in an effort to help the government in securing the release of James Larkin from prison in America. A general strike was ordered but the response to the call was not general.

A procession planned to demonstrate in front of the American consulate was participated in by comparatively few workers, and they confined themselves to cheers for Larkin. A strong police force was on guard. Fears had been expressed that the demonstration would be accompanied by attacks on the trains, but the only incident, so far as could be learned, was that armed men held up a suburban tram line for two hours.

How Many Women Are Like This?

Can anything be more wearing for women than the ceaseless round of household duties? Oh! the monotony of it all—work and drudge; no time to be sick; tired, ailing, yet cannot stop. There comes a time when something "snaps" and they find themselves "simply worn out," and to make matters worse, have contracted serious feminine disorder which almost always follows the constant overtaxing of a woman's strength.

Then they should remember that there is no remedy like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—the experience of these two women establishes that fact:

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—"After the birth of my last child I had such painful spells that would unfit me entirely for my housework. I suffered for months and the doctor said that my trouble was organic ulcers and let it go for over a year, having my sister do my work for me as I was not able to walk. One day my aunt came to see me and told me about your medicine—said it cured her of the same thing. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sensitive Wash and they have cured me. Now I do my own housework, washing and ironing and sewing for my family and also do sewing for other people. I still take a bottle of Vegetable Compound every spring for a tonic. I recommend your medicine to others who have troubles similar to mine and you can use my letter if you wish.—Mrs. FANNY FARVER, 1325 Stone St., Sandusky, Ohio.

Sandusky, Ohio.—"After the birth of my baby I had organic trouble. My doctor said it was caused by too heavy lifting and I would have to have an operation. I would not consent to an operation and let it go for over a year, having my sister do my work for me as I was not able to walk. One day my aunt came to see me and told me about your medicine—said it cured her of the same thing. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. "AN" ASTOUNDING PROPOSITION

While our soldiers were in the army a small amount was paid their dependents by the government. In many cases the compensation was inadequate, but it was always acceptable and oftentimes it saved the soldier's dependents from the breadline. Most Americans were glad when congress made provision for the families of soldiers who were on the battle lines of the nation. Yet when the proposition to care for the dependents of soldiers first came before congress it was bitterly opposed by Senator Gore who characterized it as "an astounding proposition." On June 23, 1916, when the bill increasing the pay of national guardsmen was before the senate the Oklahoma senator used the following language:

"As suggested by the senator from Missouri, the House on yesterday passed a joint resolution to grant a pension of $50.00 a month to the families of those who are sent to the front. SINCE THE WORLD BEGAN SUCH AN ASTOUNDING PROPOSITION WAS NEVER PRESENTED. EITHER TO AN INTELLIGENT OR TO A PATRIOTIC PEOPLE—$50.00 a month to the families of those who are sent to the front while they yet survive."

We submit that when the government calls the young men to battle it owes a sacred duty to the dependents left behind. If the government is able to shield the dependents from want and suffering, it should by all means do so. A government that will not care for the wife and baby of the soldier is not worth fighting for and dying for. Yet Senator Gore said that the proposal to care for the helpless was "an astounding proposition." We wonder what the women and children of Pontotoc County who were saved from suffering by the bounty of the government think of the indignant eloquence of the senator.

No doubt Harding is a clever boxer, but this time he is matched up against a John L. Sullivan.

The Billy Sunday revival in Oklahoma City has been followed by a reign of terror and doubling the police force.

The senatorial campaign is not stirring up much dust in Ada, but the prospects are fine for a red-hot finish in the race for constable.

Speaking of political Warwicks there is Dorsett Carter who is managing Gore's campaign and fighting for the open shop in Oklahoma City at the same time.

The railroad men are talking of striking because they got a raise of only six hundred million dollars. If we should get a raise like that, we would strike too—for Havana, Cuba.

Just about the time we had perfected our claim to being the original Cox supporter in Oklahoma Bill Blessing of Shawnee butted in and beat us to it. We never did like that Bill Blessing.

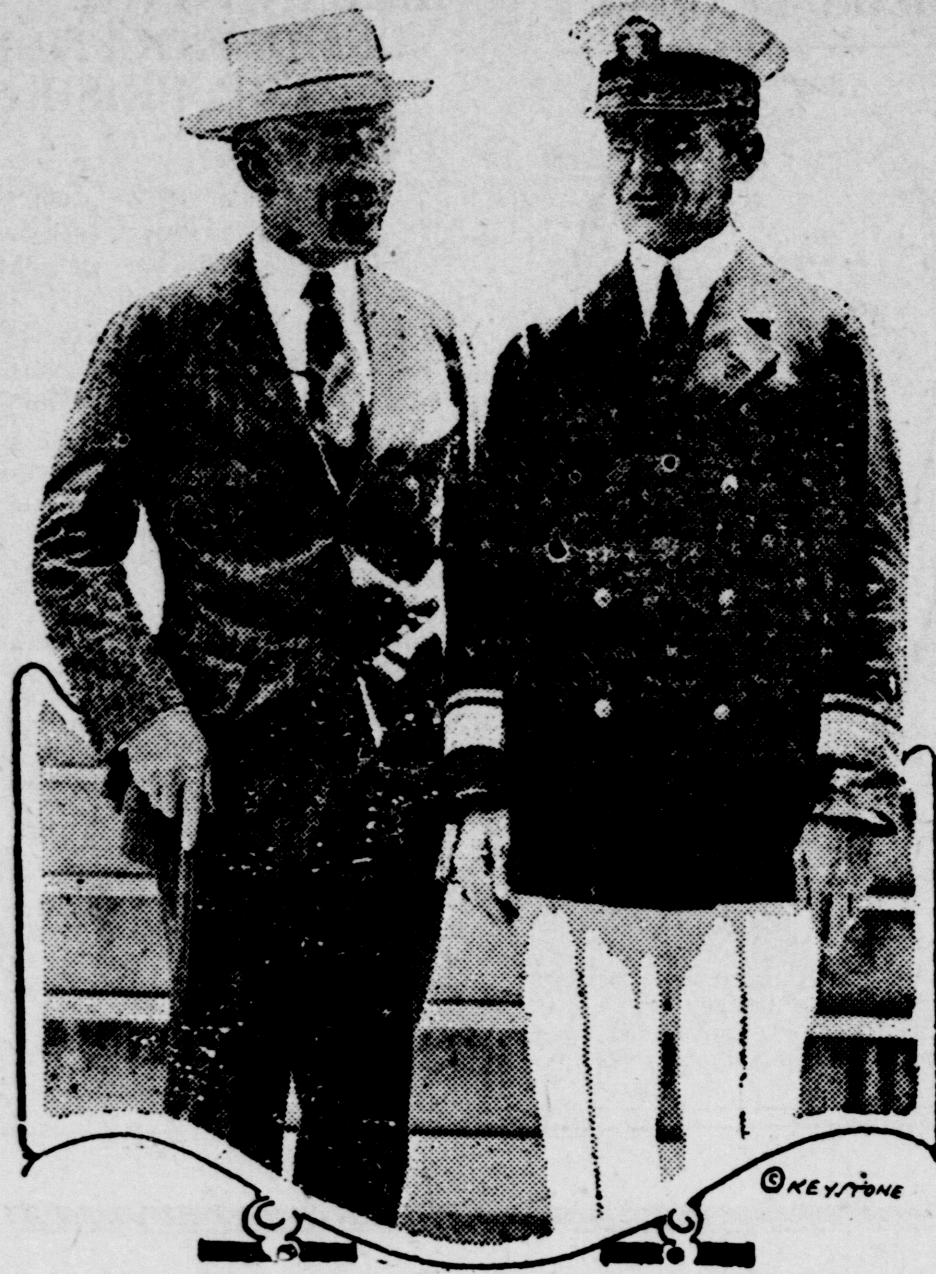

The Chicago convention seems to have developed a fine crop of consistent losers. Senator Watson lost the prohibition plank before the convention adjourned and someone else has lost the law enforcement plank.

A traveling man who has visited every corner of Oklahoma brings the pleasing information that crop prospects throughout the state are near one hundred per cent. Every county tells the same story: "The best prospects we ever had." Let us hope that the harvests may be up to the best expectations and that the price may be as good as the farmers ever received.

The sixth congressional district is probably the largest agricultural district in Oklahoma. Its population is almost solidly rural. There is no large city in the district. The farmers do most of the voting down in that district and they have elected Scott Ferris to congress seven times in succession. It is said that Ferris has never had an opponent who could carry his own precinct. If Ferris had not been a true representative of the farmers they would not have kept him in congress all these years.

Ten years have wrought a wonderful change in the politics of Oklahoma. Compared with the contests of Haskell's time the present campaign is strikingly tame and commonplace. For one reason and another the people have come to take their politics in a very quiet way. Occasionally you will hear some one whooping it up for his candidate and see a few fellows doing a political can in the market place, but they are seldom seen and attract very little attention. People have come to know that regardless of who wins they must make their own living and they refuse to become unduly excited over the outcome of a campaign. They do a lot of reading and a lot of thinking, but far less talking than they did ten years ago.

COLBY'S AID CALLS ON PRESIDENT, ARRANGES TO CALL LEAGUE MEETING

Norman H. Davis and Dr. Cary Grayson, photographed at the White House following the conference.

When the photo was taken Norman H. Davis, under secretary of state, had just conferred with President Wilson relative to the calling of the first meeting of the assembly of the league of nations. While the United States will not be represented at the meeting, having failed to ratify the treaty, the president has been invited to issue the call. In the absence of Mr. Colby the call will be made by Mr. Davis.

State Press Comment

Muskogee Phoenix: China has given us the queue. She has joined the league of nations.

McAlester News-Capital: A taxicab overcharge dispute caused a young man to commit suicide. Ought to have been murder.

Chickasha Express: As a result of the prevailing temperature, some of the candidates are necessarily in a state bordering on stewing.

Pawhuska Capital: The Reds will probably discover that something happened if Foch takes command of the Polish forces.

Chickasha Express:—As a matter of fact it is unreasonable to expect a man returning from a long auto trip to confess to all the grief he had on the road.

Oklahoma: Two deaf mutes were married recently at Okmulgee. And the story of their married life will probably say, "They lived quietly ever after."

Tulsa World: After reading the speeches of candidates for the United States senate in Oklahoma we have definitely concluded that you can prove most anything by the Congressional Record.

HARDING IS FOR FULL AND EQUAL SUFFRAGE, SAYS

By the Associated Press
MARION, Ohio, July 22.—Senator Harding told the delegation from the women's party that he will give an answer to their request that he intercede in Tennessee for ratification of the suffrage amendment, in his speech of acceptance this afternoon.

"My conception of suffrage contemplates women taking a place fully and equally with men," he said.

When the Caledonia band marched into the lawn wheezing its old time melodies, Senator Harding came down from the front porch and shook hands all around. The parade was again halted for 15 minutes while the Columbus republican Glee Club serenaded Senator Harding. While the club was singing, Theodore Roosevelt climbed over the porch rail and shook hands with the senator, while the crowd cheered. Senator Harding led Mr. Roosevelt to the front steps and presented him to the club as "the son of a great American for whom you have sung in the past."

ed by a feeling of American lack of friendliness? Would it help you toward a solution of your problems in the Pacific if Australia were to become hostile to your interests?

"On the other side would it help us to be unfriendly to you? Again on the lowest basis would it pay us? The answer in every case is 'no'."

"Then we have the great political and socio-economic problems which require solution—problems as wide as the world and as deep as the human heart. Will they be helped if you and we are unfriendly and bickering with one another? Will it help you or us if large areas of the world lapse from civilization to semi-civilization because you and we fail to co-operate with one another and with the nations whose social existence is threatened with economic chaos in which they find themselves? I know of no good which can flow from lack of friendship between our nations. I know of no human good which might not be gained for ourselves and for the world by your and our cordial cooperation with one another.

"Here is the problem:—Co-operation which is urgently needed between us is only possible on a basis of friendship and friendly trust. International friendship is only possible on a basis of mutual respect and understanding."

"You gentlemen and all of your profession have it in your power, as have no others, to foster that respect and understanding between the nations. Practically everybody reads some daily or weekly paper. A few read bound books. A mere handful studies history. On you and on your fellows throughout the English speaking world the burden is laid. By force of circumstances, by the nature of your calling, you cannot escape. In your hands largely is the making of the international relations of the future. The hope of mankind that the last great war has been fought could be turned by you either to cruel mockery or advance toward realization."

"With all the earnestness at my command I beg you in the name of all who like myself are devoting their lives to the furtherance of the cause of international peace to enroll voluntarily in the army of the international peace makers. Try with all your skill and arts to make the nations realize their common essential humanity. Let them see each other a sthey are, groupings of plain, simple people who love and hate and fear and live and die very much in the same way in all the countries whose civilization is based on Europe."

"Get them to see that that civilization is indissolubly linked at its foundation with the Christian ethic—other civilizations were not and are not, but ours is and assumes in all its customs and conventions a far distribution of effective Christianity among the people. Get your readers to realize how civilization has been advanced by the genius of the few whose life works have benefited the many without regard to national frontiers."

"Rich and precious is our heritage, but we hold only a life rent in our possession. It belongs to our children and to theirs and to the unnumbered generations of the future."

BARTLESVILLE MAN IN SENATORIAL RACE

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 22.—
(Special)—The republican race for the United States senatorship is being considerably enlivened now-days by the activities of N. D. Welty of Bartlesville, who is an aggressive candidate for the republican nomination. Welty is editor of the Examiner at Bartlesville, one of the leading republican dailies of the state, and his large acquaintance among newspaper men has given him an advantage over his opponents that will have to be recognized with in the primary. Welty is a man of undoubted ability and has a clean public and personal record to his credit.

The boom of the Bartlesville editor has received considerable impetus from the fact that two editors are now the nominees of the two great parties for the presidency.
Some of the republican leaders in Oklahoma are wise enough to realize that should the democrats nominate Senator Gore thousands of democrats will vote the republican ticket for senator in November, providing the republican nominee has a clean record for loyalty and upstanding Americanism. The supporters of Mr. Welty believe that he is the man to attract this democratic vote and be elected in November, and for that reason they are boosting his candidacy with great enthusiasm.

Five Minute Chats on Our Presidents

WEDDED IN WHITE HOUSE

1864—July 21, Frances Folsom born in Buffalo.
1885—Graduated from Wells college.
1886—June 2, married President Cleveland in the White House.
1913—February 10, married Prof. Thomas J. Preston at Princeton, N. J.

AS THE Democrats had lost power under a bachelor president, James Buchanan, they regained it after a quarter of a century under another bachelor president. That strange coincidence was brought to an end by Cleveland's marriage in the second year of his administration.

From the day Cleveland entered the executive mansion at Albany, gossip busily made matches for him with one after another of the eligible women who appeared at his receptions. A special favorite of those persistent rumors was the pretty widow of one of his old law partners, Oscar Folsom, whose home was one of the few homes in Buffalo where this unsocial person had been in the habit of visiting. It was not suspected that all along his own choice had been the daughter rather than the mother.

Mrs. Folsom and her daughter were guests of the president and Miss Cleveland in their first month at the White House. Even the wisecracks of Washington did not guess that the beautiful young girl who was present at a reception—all in white—would in another year be the bride of her host.

Miss Folsom had graduated and was traveling in Europe when the country was set in a flutter by the announcement of her engagement. She returned home to meet such an ordeal as no other American girl of twenty-two ever has faced. Her name was on every tongue in America; her portrait was in every paper, and the press boats

For more than a quarter of a century he plodded along in Buffalo, a quiet, trusted, but not distinguished lawyer. Unmarried and without family or a home, he took no part in the social life of his community, where 100 other Buffalonians may have been better known to their fellow-townsmen.

He had been an assistant district attorney of Erie county and also its sheriff. The first that was ever heard

STORY OF 'EVANGELINE' AT AMERICAN THEATRE

The tale of "Evangeline," Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's immortal poem, was told by a father to his daughter and her fiancé when they were on the brink of a lover's quarrel. The story ran as follows:

The little village of Grand-Pre lay in the fruitful valley in Acadie, home of the happy. It was indeed a peaceful settlement, peopled by farmer folk and located amid beautiful surroundings.

Benedict Bellefleur was the wealthiest farmer of Grand-Pre. With him, directing his household, gentle Evangeline lived, his child and the pride of the village. Though she had many suitors, she accepted as her betrothed Gabriel, son of Basil, the blacksmith.

All went happily in Acadie till, in Halifax, the climax of a hundred years of conflict between the English and French over the American colonies was reached. The royal governor, Charles Lawrence, entirely without authority from the King, decided to deport all French Acadians. This was in 1755.

"Good! I am determined to rid the province of such perfidious subjects," were the words used by Lawrence when the royal commission authorizing Colonel Winslow to conduct the deportation was prepared.

The marriage contract between Evangeline and Gabriel was duly signed in the presence of Rene LeBlanc, the notary. The evening passed very happily for the two lovers and for their fathers.

Then came Evangeline's wedding morn. She was decked in her best. The people of Grand-Pre assembled. Father Felician, with loving care, prepared the church for the ceremony.

But, as the people were preparing for the wedding, British soldiers landed from three ships. The order was given to bring all the men of Grand-Pre to the church.

The wedding party was crowded out of the church as the soldiers marched the men in. Then the decree of exile for every man, woman and child in Acadie was read. The more impetuous among the residents counselled resistance, but Father Felician advised against this.

That night was a sorrowful one. Next day the Acadians were deported. Gabriel and Evangeline were put on different ships, headed for different ports. Each strove desperately, but in vain, for a farewell glimpse of the other.

Far asunder, on separate coasts, the Acadians landed. Gabriel and his father found prosperity in the southern savannas. But Gabriel could think only of Evangeline, while she, ever-seeking, journeyed here and there with other exiles in a never-faltering quest of Gabriel.

So the long search of the two lovers, each for the other, continued for years and years.

Sometimes Evangeline spoke with those who had seen her beloved. She heard that he was a voyageur in the lowlands of Louisiana. Baptiste Leblanc paid court to Evangeline. She had other suitors, but her heart and hand still were Gabriel's.

Basil, the father, gave a feast at his home in Louisiana for a group of arriving Acadians. Gabriel, in despair not finding Evangeline among them, sought in the western wilds relief from self and sorrow.

The lovers once were pitifully near meeting. While Evangeline rested by the shore of the river on which she and Acadian boatmen were traveling, Gabriel and his voyageur friends passed her in a canoe. But angel of God there was none to awaken the slumbering maiden.

Soon Evangeline awoke with a start.

"Oh, Father Felician!" she cried. "Something says in my heart that near me Gabriel wanders."

Father Felician consoled her as best he could.

Gabriel's journeying led through adventurous regions. The wagon train with which he was traveling was attacked by Indians, and a terrific battle followed.

Meanwhile Evangeline wandered, searching for Gabriel. Fair was she and young when hope began its long journey. Faded was she and old when it ended in the city founded by Penn the apostle.

The long-hoped-for reunion came at last when Gabriel, as one of the victims of pestilence, sought refuge in the almshouse where Evangeline was a sister of mercy. Happiness came at last, only to be ended by Gabriel's death.

The voice of the father, who was reading the poem, faltered as he reached the closing lines. But the sweetness of the love epic did its work. The sweethearts' quarrel was ended.

See Evangeline at the American Thursday and Friday.

Quite a number of Bebee folks attended church at Parish Chapel Saturday night and Sunday.

Cleveland as Sheriff.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland.

of him outside his neighborhood were his sledge-hammer vetoes from the mayor's office only two years before his election to the presidency. The whole state of New York stopped to listen to his resounding whacks and next the whole country took notice.

The sudden, the theatrical rise of the man was not a mere caprice, a blind stroke of luck. On the contrary, he was nominated and elected president because he was the logical, common-sense choice; because this unknown, unambitious lawyer of Buffalo had become in two swift years the most conspicuous embodiment of the things that the times called for—dependence in politics and a higher standard of conduct in office.

Here was a man who was to make his own precedents, a man who was to care for nothing that had happened before he happened. The first president after the Civil war to have had no part in that strife, he was without a political past, and his face was turned wholly to the future.

He struck dismay to the greedy hopes of the Democrats, after their long wandering in a wilderness without spoils, by announcing that he would let the Republican office-holders finish their terms, with the exception of those who had been guilty of "offensive partisanship." When the Republican senate attempted to interfere with such removals as he did make, he objected to the revival of an old statute "after an existence of nearly 20 years of almost innocuous desuetude." This phrase was too much for the senators, and the act was repealed.

At last Cleveland deliberately sacrificed himself for the sake of plain speaking. The prospects of his reelection were bright. His native conservatism had made him a favorite in the great financial centers of New York, and the all-powerful business interests of the country were satisfied with him. But on the eve of the election of 1888 he upset the entire situation by sending to congress his sensational tariff message, opening with the now oft-quoted words: "It is a condition which confronts us, not a theory."

crowded about her ship from which she was smuggled aboard a revenue cutter to avoid the curious crowd at New York dock.

There had been only one marriage of a president, and John Tyler was a widower, which took some of the romance out of the occasion. For the first time a president was to marry in the White House. As Miss Folsom's mother had given up her home and as her grandfather's house was in mourning for his recent death, like the affianced of a sovereign she went to her husband's home to be married.

The wedding in the blue room was extremely simple, the only guests being a few relatives of the bride and groom and the members of the cabinet. After the cake had been cut in the state dining room, the bridal pair succeeded in stealing out the back door under cover of darkness to a waiting train in a switch yard. They had eluded the curious crowds gathered in front of the White House and at the station, but not the ubiquitous press whose locomotive was under steam and in readiness to pursue them, with a trainload of reporters, to their honeymoon retreat in the Maryland mountains.

The continued attention of a vigilant press wherever the presidential couple went was indignantly resented by the bridegroom, who hotly denounced the "ghoul-like glee" with which his family affairs were discussed. More malicious, more cruel were the unprinted tales which were persistently circulated as long as he remained in public life.

Mrs. Cleveland is said on one occasion to have given a pathetic hint of what the strokes aimed at the president through her little ones meant to a mother. With childlike bashfulness a daughter was holding back from the greetings of a small company at the White House, when Mrs. Cleveland said, "Speak up, dear, or the people will be told that you are deaf and dumb."

Mrs. Cleveland herself was spared. At first her girlish charms, afterward her womanly dignity and her maternal devotion made this most youthful the most beloved mistress of the White House.

"Cowpunchers" Are Growing Extinct As Buffaloes in Okla.

Today a downright, honest-to-goodness cowman rode into this city from one of the ranches near here, which reminded one of the good old days before statehood. Just a few years ago it was a common sight to see a cowman with big hat, boots, spurs, and "chapped up" so keen that he looked like a Brimmer cow himself. The range was open those days, the man with the gun ruled, yet there was law enforcement officers, but cases of "gun-toting" and "having a h—" of a good time seldom came to trial.

Today the time is changed, the former "bad man" is tame. No more do you hear of a gang of cowpunchers riding into the city and shoot up the town, or ride up and down the sidewalks and shoot window lights out of stores. No more wide open gambling joints and dance halls. Sometimes there are often rumors that in Montana and Wyoming a little tinge of these bad effects still remain in the blood of a limited few in those states. In all probability they are of the "William S. Hart variety—just stage and picture affairs.

Today the cowpuncher and "bad man" is included with the buffaloes who are growing extinct and are in the "passing show" of 1920.

Ada Boy Decorated for Bravery, Sept. 14th at Chalons-Surmeuse

Kenneth Frank, member of Co. G, 23rd Infantry, is here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Frank.

Frank enlisted July 24, 1916, and saw 23½ months service in France and was wounded at the Aisne front. During the drive in the Chalons Surmeuse sector, Frank was severely wounded, also every member of his company disabled.

During a heavy fire from German artillery Sept. 12, 1918, at Chateau-Thierry, he crawled back to his regimental headquarters and delivered a message to the commanding officer, for which act of heroism he was decorated with the croix de guerre, the highest military honor, Sept. 14, 1918.

Frank is with the 23rd Infantry, which is located at Camp Travis, Texas. He is home on a furlough and will remain in this city several days.

Collective Township Fairs Will Be Held September 15 to 18

A properly conducted fair should, and does, result in increased production.

No one factor does more to stimulate effort in the improvement of farm conditions than the agricultural fair. It is there that the farmers have an opportunity to see and observe the progress being made in the improvement of farm crops and animals and to compare his own work with the efforts of others. His success in competing with his neighbors stimulates him to greater efforts, and his failures teach him wherein his work has been at fault.

In order to carry out the purpose of the Oklahoma Free Fair law, three classes of fairs are encouraged in each county—the community fair, the township fair, or better known as the county fair. The communities hold their affairs at the school houses, later placing the prize exhibits in the township fair. From the township fair comes the cream of exhibits for the county fair.

This year the pontotoc county free fair will be the largest in its history. Not only will the exhibits be better, but the fair as a whole. The programs for the amusement are filled with the many good things that are enjoyed by American people. Ball games, horse racing, the McGregor carnival and various other amusements are to be found at the fairs.

To those who wish to spend a 4-day outing at Oklahoma's greatest county fair, an invitation is extended to the world to visit Ada, the big Double-A city, and be its guest from September 15th to the 18th.

Colored Trio Are Arrested and Fined For Disturbance

Three colored citizens were arraigned in Justice Brown's court yesterday on a charge of disturbing the peace. They entered pleas of guilty and were assessed $12.75 each. One of the citizens paid his assessment and was released, while the other two in default of payment were sent to the county jail.

The colored trio were arrested at Lawrence Tuesday evening by Walter Goynes. Although living in Ada they had gone down to Lawrence to enjoy a turbulent outing, which turbulence caused a riot call to be turned in to the authorities and the arrest followed.

Another Divorce Suit.

John Atwell is defendant in a divorce suit filed in district court yesterday by Mrs. Mary Atwell. The plaintiff states in her petition that she was married to defendant at Ashdown, Ark., on December 9, 1918, and that the couple lived together as man and wife until November 14, 1919. That during the time they lived together defendant treated her in a cruel and unusual manner, frequently striking and beating her. Wherefore she asks for a divorce from defendant.

ADA MARINE WINS MEDAL IN WEST INDIES

Among the U. S. Marines who are stationed in Haiti, the little republic in the West Indies, is Private Jesse W. Shockley of Ada, Oklahoma. He was recently awarded a silver medal in a rifle competition, held at Guantanamo, Cuba, where he made one of the highest scores of the rifle match.

Private Shockley, who is a son of John Shockley of Ada, has been with the U. S. Marines for several years. In recent months he has been stationed in Haiti, where the Marines are employed in keeping order and maintaining the stability of government.

While there are occasional outbreaks of bandits and revolutionists in that country, the Marines have succeeded in pacifying most of the island, and reports from the schools, farms and industrial concerns show that they are in a flourishing condition. Private Shockley was sent to the neighboring island of Cuba for the West Indies rifle competition, a few weeks ago, where he succeeded in winning the medal.

GORE IS DENOUNCED BY DURANT SOLDIERS

By News' Special Service:

DURANT, July 22.—Declaring that when they laid aside the arms of war for the habiliments of peace they did not intend to forget the insidious influence of men who opposed their government, eighty-five former Bryan county soldiers signed resolutions here last night denouncing Thomas Pryor Gore for his un-American activities while they were fighting the battles of civilization.

"We the undersigned soldiers of Bryan county, Oklahoma, do hereby condemn the unpatriotic attitude of Senator T. P. Gore in the senate of the United States during the late war," the resolution reads. "We denounce him not only as our enemy but as the enemy of every loyal citizen who places his country foremost."

"We love our homes, our state and the United States. When we laid aside the armaments of war to take up the pursuits of peace, we did not for a single instant intend to forget or forgive the insidious influence that sought to hamper our government in the time of stress and which now seeks to undermine it during the tedious time of reconstruction."

"We despise treason with the deep rooted hatred that only a soldier can feel and we revere loyalty with that devotion that enables even the weakest of us to gladly die that our beloved emblem might always greet the high dome of heaven, proudly, gloriously and unashamed."

The resolution is signed by the following former soldiers of Bryan county: John A. MacDonald, Howard McKinney, E. S. Matthews, H. Y. Matthews, Ward Thompson, Lloyd Umberger, L. B. Yarbrough,

15,000 COAL MINERS ARE IDLE IN ILLINOIS

By The Associated Press

BELLVILLE, Ill., July 22.—More than 15,000 coal miners are idle in Illinois as a result of the unauthorized strike of day laborers. It was estimated by strikers here today. The majority of those idle, however, it was pointed out, were obligated to cease work because of the walkout of day men, who include drivers, pumpmen and timbermen. They are demanding an average increase of from $5.50 to $7.50 per day. It was explained.
